CITY TRUSTEES START CAMPAIGN OF TREE PLANTING

Authorize Chairman Hynding to Purchase 5000 Eucalyptus Trees, to Be Planted in Alleys of City

The Board of City Trustees met in regular session last Monday evening.

The most important work of the session was when the board gave Chairman Hynding authority to purchase 5000 eucalyptus trees from fourteen to sixteen inches in height from Nurseryman Ludermann, at a price of $11 per thousand.

Quite a lot of enthusiasm was created among the citizens present by the action of the board.

Arrangements were immediately made to hold a mass meeting of citizens in the town hall on the following Thursday evening, in order on perfect a list of citizens who will volunteer to plant the trees.

Stakes will be furnished and the trees cared for by the city. Citizens are to dig the holes, about a foot square, and plant the trees.

G. Matteo was granted a class A liquor license to conduct a bar in the Union Hotel. His bondsmen are M. F. Healy and J. Biagini.

Trustee Hickey called attention to a ditch dug across the sidewalk on Baden Avenue to drain a low place in this avenue. He suggested that a culvert be placed in the ditch. Referred to the street committee.

An ordinance providing the rate to be paid by the consumers in this city for the next fiscal year was introduced by Trustee Hickey.

It was made a special order for the next regular meeting.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

Residents of South San Francisco are asked to furnish this office with any news items that they know of from time to time. There is a letter box attached to our front door, in which written items can be placed. Please write on one side of paper and sign your name to it. THE ENTERPRISE desires to print all the local happenings, and the people of South San Francisco can be of material help.

Many of the sports of this city attended the Nelson-Wolgast fight at Point Richmond on Washington's Birthday.

H. L. Haaker won the billiard tournament Thursday night from T. J. Gerrity by a score of 200 to 192. The champion is open to meet all comers, with a side bet.

The stag party given by the Independent Voters and Citizens Club at Metropolitan Hall last Saturday night was a successful affair and everyone who attended had a good time.

Maurice Coturri, of the Southern Pacific Company's detective service in Nevada, formerly located in this vicinity, was in town Wednesday shaking hands with his many friends.

The demand for violets grown in this city has increased so that many more acres of land are being prepared to grow that fragrant flower. This city has been appropriately named "The Violet City."

Contractor Scott has been able to do a considerable amount of work macadamizing Grand Avenue, owing to good weather conditions, this week. Screenings have been placed on the upper end of the avenue, which before being opened for traffic will be rolled with a heavy steam roller.

South City Baseball Team defeated the Verandah Stars last Sunday by a score of 15 to 9. Battery for Verandahs—Matthewson and Ginger. South City—Sullivan, Gerrity and Martin. The feature of the game was a long hit by Martin which rolled for some minutes after touching the ground. South City team is open for a challenge from the Verandahs for another game, with a side bet.

The Good Templars Lodge of this city met in Guild Hall on last Monday evening for reorganization. Six new members were received into membership. Officers for the present quarter were elected. At the next meeting of the lodge, which will be held on Friday evening, March 4th, in Guild Hall, there will be installation of officers. There will also be an initiation of new members.

An enthusiastic tree-planting meeting was held in the city hall last Thursday evening and a plan of campaign mapped out to plant five thousand eucalyptus trees purchased by the city trustees. All interested will assemble at the city hall to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 8 o'clock. Everybody bring a spade or a shovel. Surveys have been made and stakes driven, so there will be no delay. A Hynding will be in charge and an outline will be given, so that there need be no confusion. Parties desiring eucalyptus trees for their lots, grounds or streets can obtain them without cost. Let everybody turn out and plant the entire 5000 in one day. The trustees are arranging to have the trees taken care of, and anyone destroying or letting their livestock destroy any of these trees will be heavily fined.

There has been established at San Mateo Cal., Musicians' Protective Union, No. 535, A. F. of M. All musicians desiring to become members of this local will communicate with Chas. S. Noyes, P. O. Box 182, Burlingame, Cal. Charter will close February 24th, after which membership fee will be raised.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY CRITICISED BY SUPERVISORS

Matter of Revoking J. W. Coffroth's Arena License Postponed Thirty Days--Reject Bids for Furnishing Lights.

The Board of County Supervisors met at Redwood City last Monday in regular mid-month session. All the members were present.

The general report of the last Grand Jury was read by Clerk Nash. At its close the various members of the board remarked there were false statements in the report.

McEvoy—Some of the alleged facts in the report are false.

Coleman—That portion of the report stating that the county farm buildings are in a bad condition is not the truth. Coleman's statement was coincided in by Casey and Blackburn.

Blackburn—The board passed resolutions declining to enter into extra courthouse contracts long before the Grand Jury met.

McEvoy—The Grand Jury's false statements should be condemned.

The board declined to accept the report, but ordered it filed, to be acted upon at the next regular meeting.

The Hillsboro incorporation matter was laid over for two weeks, at the request of City Attorney Kirkbride of San Mateo.

Attorney Reddington, representing the incorporators, protested, and wanted it laid over one week.

At the request of several residents of the Colma and San Bruno lighting districts the bids for furnishing lights for those districts by the South San Francisco Light and Power Company were rejected. It was stated that the advertisements calling for bids were illegally worded.

A communication was received from Superintendent J. F. Ford of the county farm, stating that the sum of $17.50 was still due from former Superintendent A. Eikerenkotter on account of hay.

Upon motion of Blackburn, seconded by Francis, it was ordered that Messrs. Ford and Eikerenkotter be cited to appear before the board at its next meeting and explain the matter.

Judge E. F. Fitzpatrick appeared before the board as attorney for several petitioners who at a previous meeting asked that the board revoke the license of J. W. Coffroth, granting him permission to give boxing contests at the Mission-street Arena.

Upon being asked by Chairman McEvoy if there were any witnesses present, Judge Fitzpatrick answered in the negative, stating that he supposed from the action of the board at a previous meeting they would not be needed.

Upon motion of Blackburn, seconded by Coleman, action in the matter was postponed thirty days.

Attorney Hall C. Ross presented a petition from the Sierra and San Francisco Power Co., asking for a franchise granting the company the right to place its power line along, over and across the county in Visitation Valley District, near the northern boundary of this county.

Upon motion of Blackburn, seconded by Francis, the petition was accepted and referred to Casey of the First Township, who was requested to report at next meeting.

Action in the matter of revoking the liquor license of Maud Earl, who conducts the County Line Saloon on the Mission road, was continued until next meeting.

Supervisor Casey was given further time in the matter of giving permission to the Crocker Estate Co. to install a distillate tank at the Crocker Tract on the Mission road.

BOOSTERS TO HOLD MEETING AT COLMA

The local Tanforan site boosters, in company with about twenty citizens of San Bruno, will journey in a special electric car to Colma next Tuesday evening to hold a meeting with the purpose of enlisting Colmaites in the movement to locate the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915 at Tanforan Park, to the south of this city. The special car will leave the local post-office at 7:30 sharp, and leave San Bruno at 8. Citizens are urged to take the trip and aid in making the visit a memorable one. A charge of 50 cents round trip will be made.

JUDGE BUCK REFUSES TO DISMISS CHARGE

Judge George H. Buck refused to dismiss the accusation against Justice of the Peace Loveland for malfeasance in office on Thursday, when asked to do so by District Attorney J. J. Bullock. Loveland did not appear before Judge Buck. His attorneys, Roth & Roth, succeeded in securing a continuance of the case until March 3d.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS OPEN CAMPAIGN

At a meeting of county Democrats held in the office of the Redwood City Democrat on Thursday the following delegates were selected to represent the State Democratic Conference which will be held at Los Angeles during April: James V. Swift of Redwood City; William H. Almon of Colma; Charles J. Hatch of San Mateo; M. F. Healy of South San Francisco; Captain H. N. Royden of San Mateo; Joseph Debenedetti of Halfmoon Bay; J. J. Smith of Colma. The meeting, which in caucus considered plans for the coming local campaign was presided over by William H. Almon as chairman and J. Franklin Ford as secretary.

SOCIAL AT VISTAGRANDE

On Thursday evening some sixty Epworthians met at the home of Mrs. Wilbur White to enjoy a good program, an excellent social time and light refreshments. The social was a great success in every particular, which is due to the energetic, active and efficient president, Miss Turner. The Epworth League is growing rapidly.

Dr. Evans, our district superintendent, will preach in Vista Grande Sunday morning. Come and bring your friends.

REGISTER.

Citizens of this city can now register their names with F. A. Cunningham, at the Postoffice, or Geo. Wallace at the Verandah Hotel, in order that they can vote at the August primaries and the fall State and county election in November. The voters of this city whose names are on the last great register can vote at the coming city election if they have not changed their residence from one precinct to another. New citizens must register immediately if they wish to vote at the coming city election in April.

WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

The following firms of this city will close their stores on Sundays in future, commencing February 27th: H. Gaerdes, Dutra & Quilla and Geo. Debenedetti.

THE CLOCK OF FATE.

How a Marriage License Was Taken Out Four Times.

By DELIA TOURTELOTTE.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

While looking for evidence of a marriage involving property belonging to clients of mine I came upon a marriage license issued to two parties, and written across the face of the entry in red ink was the note by the judge: "Returned unused. See page so-and-so." On turning to the page referred to there was another record and the same red ink note. In short, the record shows that a license was procured and returned unused three different times. The fourth time, however, was the charm, and they were married, he at the age of forty and she at thirty years.

I made a note of the names, intending to look for the story that appeared to be contained in these several notes. Years afterward I stumbled upon it by accident. It was told to me by a sister of the lady for whom the license was taken out. Here it is:

A social party from the city was husking corn on Berkhart's farm.

Among the husking party were the two persons whose names appear in the marriage record. They were Norman Witridge, at that time aged twenty-five, and Rose Anderson, a slip of a girl, hovering between childhood and womanhood. Witridge was a handsome young fellow, and Rose Anderson was a very pretty girl. Between fifteen and twenty-five, nothing but physical beauty is needed to unite those of opposite sex. The two were sitting on a heap of corn husks tearing off the husks when they saw each other for the first time.

Witridge husked a red ear.

Every one who knows anything about husking parties is aware that when a fellow finds a red ear he is entitled to kiss the girl he happens to be nearest. Witridge had noticed the vermilion lips of Rose Anderson, and, hungry for a kiss, he was eagerly watching for the red ear that would give him one. The moment he saw the dark kernels he took the kiss, and it seemed to him that he was in heaven.

As it needs only one electric spark to send a message around the globe, so with two young people it needs but a kiss to start a home. The couple spent several hours together, at the end of which time Witridge, who had driven to the husking in a buggy, handed the girl into it and drove to town. It was the old story. Swayed by impulse, he had dared her to marry him, and, swayed by impulse, she had taken him up.

On reaching the town Witridge procured a marriage license and took Rose Anderson to a parson for the purpose of marriage. Knowing nothing about the age required to enable a clergyman to legally marry a girl, she replied that she was fifteen. The clergyman declined to perform the ceremony and berated the young man soundly for bringing so young a girl to him to be married. The two went out and stood for a few moments on the sidewalk, the young man irresolute. Then, putting the girl in the buggy, he drove her to her home.

The next day the marriage license was returned unused.

Whether or no Rose Anderson's parents knew of how near their daughter had come to being married I did not learn, but the fact remains that within a week after she went to the parson's she was packed off to boarding school, where she remained, vacations excepted, for three years. During this period she never met the man who had come so near to being her husband.

When the fates have a destined end in view they arrange situations to meet the case. In the first place they knew perfectly well the dispositions of the couple they had decreed should eventually marry. They did not bring them together again in a conventional way. They took care that the next meeting should be calculated in accordance with the impulsive natures of the young couple, especially the girl's. Not only this, they sent Cupid to shoot a few more arrows into their hearts.

Mr. Witridge and Miss Anderson, three years older than they were at the husking, came together for the second time at a straw sleigh ride, and the managers of their destinies arranged that they should sit side by side. Witridge began by apologizing for having ever asked a girl so young as she had been at the time to marry him and ended by saying that he was very sorry she had not been of the required age.

Something, she knew not what, moved the girl to discover whether or no he was bluffing—giving taffy—in short, that to express which no correct English word has ever been coined. She dropped her lids, and he felt for her hand. He found it, and it was not withdrawn. When they separated she had intimated to him that if he would call on her the next afternoon she would complete what had been intended after the husking party.

The next morning Mr. Witridge took out the marriage license for the second time and in the afternoon called upon Miss Anderson. He found her arrayed for the bridal in a plain walking suit, and they started at once for the clergyman who had declined to marry them before. Miss Anderson went to the very door, but when she saw Mr. Witridge's dumb about to press the button she turned and fled. She had discovered that he was not bluffing, and he had discovered that she was doing that very thing.

For the second time the marriage license was returned. The clock of destiny for those concerned struck 2. When the couple met for the third time it would not have availed the fates to bring them together that they might act on impulse, for their impulses had faded before maturity. It was twelve years before they met the third time. It is singular that, really loving each other, they should have been separated for so long a period. The reason was that Witridge supposed Miss Anderson had acted from "bluff" alone and pursued the matter no further. Miss Anderson, being now a woman passed out of childhood, would not marry, so to speak, "on a lark." She must be properly wooed and won. The consequence was that they passed all these years under a misunderstanding.

Meanwhile Witridge had become an active business man. He grew wealthy, or was considered so, belonged to a number of select clubs and went somewhat in society. One evening at a social function he met Miss Anderson, now a woman of thirty, not yet past the line between youth and middle age. The moment the two got together the smouldering fire within began to show flame. Something the lady said induced her lover to believe that he had made a mistake. The next day he called, and the next week they were engaged to be married.

It was about this time that a financial panic occurred, and while it was coming on arrangements were being made for the wedding.

One day, two months after the engagement had been announced, Witridge went to the office where marriage licenses are procured and called for the license that had been twice returned. The clock of fate struck 3.

The wedding day was bright and beautiful, and it seemed that the long unused marriage license would serve its purpose. But the fates had not yet finished their work. On entering his carriage to go to the church Mr. Witridge was arrested on a criminal charge of misappropriation of funds. He had for some time, like many others, been struggling against a want of ready money in business and was considered rather "shaky" by some of his creditors. One of them, fearing that he was about to fail, took this method on the eve of the debtor's marriage to force an immediate payment of his claim. Witridge was unable to meet his demands and instead of going to the bridal went to jail. The act of this creditor brought about Witridge's failure, and as soon as the former found that his attempt to force his debtor had failed he withdrew the charge, and Witridge went forth a free but ruined man.

Miss Anderson is now a woman, and it is time, if ever, that she shall show whether she is the same impulsive creature as ever or has grown cold with increasing years. She sent a note to the man who had been so ruthlessly torn away from her saying that she believed he would clear himself of the charge and he could count on her if he did.

When Miss Anderson saw her lover again he was much changed. He looked fifty instead of forty and was discouraged. He had no income on which to support a wife, he had no capital with which to embark again in business, and he felt that his good name had been smirched. Miss Anderson had sent word asking him when he left the jail to come at once to her. When Witridge entered the drawing room at her home he encountered a pair of arms that were thrown violently around his neck, and his face was covered with kisses. Then the two sat down together, and she said to him:

"I have some property, as you know, and have turned it all into cash, realizing $18,000. Here is a check for the amount to your order. It is not much to start in business with, but you have a host of friends, and that is capital in itself. You must begin tomorrow."

A light rose in his melancholy eyes as he said:

"You are the same girl you were at the husking. 'Bray a fool in a mortar'—"

"And she will be the same girl that tried to bluff you when we went to be married the second time," she finished. "If it hadn't been for both our impulses we might have been happy together long ago," he said, with a sigh. "And if it hadn't been for my impulses now I might leave you to a frightful old age. Go at once and get that ancient marriage license."

And the same day the clock of fate struck 4.

OVERLAND DAVENPORT.

"Hobo's Feather Bed" Indorsed as Proper Berth For Traveling Tramps.

The "overland davenport," known also as the "hobo's featherbed"—in reality a refrigerator suspended under dining cars—was officially indorsed and the bumpers were denounced at a convention of 200 tramps the other night in Chicago. The tramps drifted into the city from all points of the compass and assembled in a hall.

"New York Charley" announced that henceforth the "overland davenport" would be recognized as the proper berth for the tramp while traveling. "When they put them newfangled ice gigs under the diners they didn't suppose they was fixin' it up for us," he said, "but that's just what happened. Never again let anybody say a gent of the road rides on the bumpers."

PROPOSED OLD AGE PENSION

Coudrey of Missouri Would Transplant to America the English Scheme.

Representative Coudrey of Missouri wants to transplant to the United States the English scheme of old age pension for everybody. He recently introduced a bill in the house which, if it becomes a law, will make it the duty of the government to pay a weekly pension to every man in the United States who can show continual residence of a score of years or more and whose income is not more than $153 a year.

If the septuagenarian's income is less than $102 a year he is to receive $1.24 a month. Then the amounts graduate until, if it is $140 a year, he is to receive less than 25 cents a week. No one with an income from all sources of more than $153 a year is to participate in the benefits of the old age pension.

Fifteen Years to Make a Table.

An inlaid table of painstaking workmanship was recently exhibited by A. F. Stevens in New York city. The table contains 125,000 pieces of wood inlaid and is the result of fifteen years of labor. It was made by Frank Duprat of Schenectady, N. Y. The top is three feet square and contains 50,000 pieces of wood, and the base is a composite of different designs. The wood used in the making came from all parts of the world. There are also pieces taken from the Royal Savage, a gunboat of 1812; the battleships Maine and Oregon and the charter oak of Hartford, Conn. Some of the rare woods include rose, maze, boree, ebony, belah, cork oak, teak, laurel, chincona and sandal. Many of the inlaid pieces are no larger than one thirty-second of an inch square.

New Way to Catch Sparrows.

As the state of Michigan pays 2 cents apiece for the sparrows, Escanaba lads place whisky soaked bread crumbs in places where sparrows collect. The birds eat the "dope" and become intoxicated and unable to walk or fly, in which condition they are easily picked up by the hunters. Hundreds of sparrows are being bagged in this manner.

South San Francisco Land and Improvement Co.

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people; an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

With the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, now rapidly being constructed, South San Francisco will have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Baden Brick Company, Pacific Jupiter Steel Company, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, and other enterprises, all of which are in full operation to-day. The American Smelting and Refining Company has purchased over 300 acres of land in South San Francisco for the purpose of erecting a great plant, which they estimate will cost upwards of $5,000,000. The Doak Sheet Steel Company has purchased a large tract of land and has already commenced the construction of a large rolling mill. Other factories have recently made purchases, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

ENTERPRISE subscribers are requested to notify this office immediately if they do not receive their papers promptly each week.

The city election in April will be the first regular municipal election in the newly-fledged city of South San Francisco. The first election, at which the people voted to incorporate, and for a set of city officials, was a special election. The officials chosen at the special election have carried on the city government for nearly two years. They organized the city government. They began with an empty treasury, and chaos. They have diligently and patiently framed a code of city ordinances, may be defective in some slight particular here or there, but in the main sound and practical. They have made material improvement in the condition of the streets, making upon the whole a good use of the limited funds at their command. These five trustees have met once every week the past eighteen months, and have worked to the best of their ability for the general good. Let us not forget that these citizens have performed this work for us without compensation of any sort, other than the feeling of satisfaction which comes of a duty faithfully performed.

There have been criticisms, at times, of the acts of these public servants. It may be that in some small matters there may have been faults and room for faultfinding, but on the whole, the work of the trustees has been excellent. You and I, fellow-citizens, have noted a slight defect here, or another there, it may be, but could you and I upon the whole have done better? The writer fears we might have fallen short and failed to do as well as have these five trustees, who have served the city of South San Francisco the past two years.

It is to be regretted that the entire board of five members are not willing to serve another and a regular term, for these five citizens have gained knowledge by experience and could serve the city more effectively in the second than they have in the first term.

It is understood, however, that three members of the old board have declared that they will not serve a second term. The choice of a board of trustees in April is a subject that should engage the very serious consideration of every citizen. The two years following will be years of foundation-laying. The sewer system and street improvement will make these two years a busy and important period in the life of this city.

The board of trustees chosen in April should be composed of level-headed, able, honest men.

The Panama-Pacific Exposition Committee of San Francisco is now busy with the business of raising the $5,000,000 fund in San Francisco. When this money is subscribed, the site will be selected and the great work of improvement and building will begin.

There are at present but three sites seriously considered, viz.: The Tanforan site here in South San Francisco, the western half of Golden Gate Park, and Lake Merced. Those in charge of the claims of Tanforan to consideration feel sanguine of success on the proposition that the Tanforan site will on a full and impartial investigation be found by far the best site for the city of San Francisco and for the success of the big exposition.

"A home-like church."

D. RALSTON, Pastor.

On Sunday evening, Dr. Evans, our District Superintendent, will preach for us. Those of you who have heard Dr. Evans will make a great effort to be on hand Sunday evening. There will be special music; Mrs. Young and Mrs. Ralston will sing a duet, and the male quartette will render special selections. Come and bring your friends. Preaching Sunday morning as usual. The Epworth League will be led by Mrs. James, on the topic, "How to Work." Let all the young people be on hand at the League at 6:30 p. m.

On next Tuesday evening at San Bruno, the quarterly conference will be held. The ladies of the church will serve supper to those attending the conference. Supper will be served at 6 p. m. and after social time, conference will be held. Every member is requested to be present.

A Curiosity In Boundaries.

About 600 yards from the station at Herseaux, at the crossroads from Oudenarde to Roubaix, on the way from Tournai to Mouscron, there is a directing post which from a topographical point of view is a curiosity. This post marks the separation between the two countries, France and Belgium; three provinces or departments, Le Nord, western Flanders and Hainault; three bishoprics, Cambrai, Burges and Tournai. Three races dwell around it, speaking three languages, French, Flemish and Wallon. It is also in three communes, Wattrelos, Herseaux and Estaimpuis.—London Globe.

SAN BRUNO ITEMS

[CORRESPONDENCE]

The residents of San Bruno are asked to kindly furnish such news items as will be of interest, sending the same to our correspondent, Geo. V. C. Bacon, San Bruno, who will see that they are given due publicity. It is the desire to this paper to make the columns devoted to the San Bruno section of the county a complete summary of all that has transpired since the previous issue, and to do this it will be necessary to ask the co-operation of the residents. Any items of local or general interest will be thankfully received. Kindly hand them to Mr. Bacon any time before Thursday night in order to ensure their publication in the following Saturday's issue. Sample copies of this paper may be obtained, gratis, from Mr. Bacon.

Last Saturday afternoon funeral services were held over the remains of the late J. D. Holliday at the home of his son, W. H. Holliday, Fourth Addition. The impressive service of the Methodist-Episcopal Church was used. The Rev. Mr. Ralston delivered an eloquent and touching address, with music by a number of deceased's friends. The interment was at Cypress Lawn Cemetery, where after the committal service was delivered by Rev. Mr. Null the San Mateo Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows took charge and administered their funeral rites. The pallbearers were all members of this lodge. At the request of Mr. Holliday but few flowers were in evidence, although the many loving friends and acquaintances to whom he had endeared himself would liked to have added this one last token.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Hultberg, San Bruno Park, passed away after a brief visit to this earth of only five days of convulsions, and was laid at rest on Thursday. The parents have our sincerest sympathy.

The friends of Harry Valerno, who will be remembered as one of the pioneers of the Fourth Addition, will be pleased to learn that he has prospered in the undertaking profession that he feels warranted in establishing undertaking parlors in San Bruno, and has appointed Frank H. Smith, Third Addition, as his local representative. Harry has the best wishes of the community for his success.

Dawn, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Chisholm, Fourth Addition, has been quite ill with a threatened attack of pneumonia, but is recovering rapidly. Mrs. Chisholm has also seriously indisposed for several days.

San Bruno Homestead, No. 910, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, held an open meeting last Tuesday evening in the Town Hall, that was well attended. After a short program, consisting of several piano selections by the lodge musician, Mrs. Nolan, and addresses by Foreman Fred H. Russell, Past Foreman Geo. V. Bacon, and Archie Emerick, refreshments and dancing were enjoyed by all present. A considerable number of visitors were present, among whom were noted: Mr. and Mrs. Otto Tuska, Miss Edith Martinelli, Master Walter Tuska, and others.

The shoe store of Mr. Ricci was entered during the night recently and a number of pairs of fine shoes were stolen. No clue was left by the perpetrators.

While returning from a meeting of Women of Woodcraft at Green's Hall about midnight last Monday night, Mrs. H. Matherson was accosted by a strange man on the county road, near Chapman avenue, which caused her to seek assistance of A. J. Tucker and F. H. Russell, who were near at hand. These two gentlemen saw her safely home without further incident.

The house on the county road owned by L. T. Hasen which has just been vacated by the family of J. Donahoe, has been taken by Mrs. Schnell, mother of Mrs. A. Jenevin of the Junction House.

The third of a series of socials given by the Las Amicus Club was held at the home of the Misses Jenevin, in the shape of a valenting party, which proved a most enjoyable affair for all who were present. The Misses Jenevin proved delightful hostesses, and presided with much grace and charm at this function, of which they are most valued and active members.

A masquerade ball is to be given by the Social and Improvement Club for the benefit of one of their members who has become ill and is unable to get about. Inasmuch as the object is extremely worthy, and a good time is certain, it is hoped that a large attendance may be present.

The members of the Huntington Park Coffee Club were the guests last Thursday of Mrs. Osborne, mother of Mrs. William Muller, at her home in San Francisco. The event was one of much enjoyment, and all present passed an exceedingly pleasant afternoon.

The regular weekly meeting of the Dorcas Society, which was adjourned for one week on account of death in the family of Mrs. Holliday, one of its members, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. C. Doyle, Third Addition. As is usual when the society meets at the home of this charming hostess a royal good time was enjoyed by all, and it was with regret that the afternoon's meeting was brought to a close.

Mrs. Ruby Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson, Huntington Park, is paying her parents an extended visit and renewing old acquaintances.

Geo. Debenedetti has removed his stock of groceries and hardware from his San Bruno store to South San Francisco, and although we regret the necessity which compelled the change, George has our best wishes for his success.

At this writing it seems entirely probable that a series of automobile races will be held at Tanforan track on March 3d and 4th, if the weather permits. All the celebrated drivers in the country, as well as the cars which have made such phenomenal showing on the various tracks in the East, are coming from Los Angeles, and if the track will permit, some very fast time will be made.

The increased number of stores along San Mateo Avenue has necessitated the laying of large water pipes and a new line line of a diameter of at least 1½ inches is now being laid.

The county road in San Bruno is again without street lights, although the mud is so deep that the streets are practically impassable.

The entertainment which St. Bruno's Church is to hold in Green's Hall on St. Patrick's Day (March 17th), bids fair to be a success, as every member of the church is disposing of tickets. It is on this night that lots in Huntington Park will be given away. The Harmonie Orchestra is to supply the music, and a good time is assured all who attend. Mrs. A. T. Green, owner of Green's Hall, has generously donated the use of that hall entirely without charge to the entertainment, and has written a letter to this effect to Mr. Martinelli, who has the matter in hand.

The Misses Pudsey have moved into their new house on the hill in the Third Addition.

Dog Catcher's Ambition.

Harry Hart, an officer of the Spokane (Wash.) Humane society, who caught 2,020 stray dogs in 1909, or 4,800 since beginning the work in Spokane four years ago and a total of more than 15,000 in various parts of the United States and Canada since 1903, is striving for a world's record. His greatest ambition is to become the acknowledged champion dog catcher, and with that end in view he will undertake to clear any town of less than 50,000 of unlicensed dogs within thirty days free of charge to the municipality. Hart is a native of England, where he learned the art of catching dogs, and has worked in the province of Nova Scotia and practically every state in the Union.

Ready Money Club.

Chicago has a new organization that may soon have a counterpart in New York city if the receivers of Manhattan's car lines go on increasing the number of pay-as-you-enter cars. The Windy City, report has it, now has a Ready Money club, one of the rules of which is "mount the steps of the street car with a five cent piece grasped firmly in the hand, press the coin into the expectant palm of the conductor and pass rapidly into the car." Anybody who has had to stand in half a foot of muddy ice water at a New York corner while a dozen slow people had bills changed by the fare taker ought to be willing to promote such a philanthropic scheme in New York.

CANNON ON HOBBIES.

Speaker's Frank Views of Some Public Men's Pet Ideas.

"Men who ride hobbies make excellent servants, but mighty poor masters." This declaration was made recently by Speaker Cannon at the "hobby night" entertainment of the National Press club in Washington. Among the other "hobbyists" who spoke during the evening were Willis L. Moore of the weather bureau, Dr. Harvey Wiley, Gifford Pinchot, Commander Robert E. Peary and Congressman Champ Clark.

Speaker Cannon declared that his "hobby" was in "watching other men's hobbies." The men of one idea, he declared, are all good men, and he wished them success and long life, although he said that "it makes one uncomfortable often in watching other men's hobbies."

Taking up the speakers who had preceded him, he declared that Dr. Wiley was all right, but that if he had been allowed to have his own way entirely he would have had everybody afraid to eat anything for fear of being poisoned; that conservation was a good thing, but that he was not afraid of all the coal being consumed or all the timber being used up, and that much had been done in the way of conservation from a practical standpoint for many years. As for Commander Peary, he was glad a Caucasian had reached the north pole, but while Commander Peary had the glory Dr. Cook had the money.

Ex-President Roosevelt he called "the greatest press agent that ever lived." He asserted that more good legislation had been passed during his seven years in the White House than during any other similar period in the history of the United States, except during that of the civil war. "But suppose we had passed all the laws that he recommended in his messages," he said. "The budget of the country would be many times what it is now."

The speaker declared that he found great enjoyment in watching the men who had "hobbies," but that it would hardly do to let them be at the head of things.

MAIL BAGS FOR CLOTHING.

Where Some of United States Government's Property Goes.

United States mail bags are used in some foreign countries as material for clothing, for saddlecloths and for packs on mules. This curious fact was developed by an investigation into the circumstance of a steamer passenger who arrived at New Orleans a few weeks ago having her belongings carefully tucked away in a mail bag of the United States. The woman came from Guatemala. Her belongings were seized by the customs officers, and she was detained. She explained that she acquired the mail bag in Guatemala, where it was on sale, not knowing that she was committing any wrong. After an examination she was dismissed.

It is shown by the records of the postoffice department that a large number of mail bags in which foreign mail is sent disappear each year, but it is impossible to keep a definite trace of them. Diplomatic representatives of the government have reported from time to time that the material used in United States mail bags frequently is found in possession of natives of countries like those of Guatemala. The loss sustained by the United States through the disappearance of mail bags, however, is comparatively small, not exceeding probably 150 a year.

HIGHER PRICES FOR YEARS.

So Professor Jenks Predicts if Gold Production Continues.

Professor J. W. Jenks of Cornell university, at Ithaca, N. Y., agrees with those economists who ascribe the increase in the cost of living to the increased production of gold. To a large number of farmers at Ithaca for farmers' week at the State College of Agriculture he said the other night:

"Money is no more fixed in value than the articles it purchases. There is no sign of a letup in the increased production of gold, and unless some change is made in our monetary system we may expect prices to go up for years to come."

Actors Want Postal Savings Bank.

A petition has been put in circulation among actors and other theatrical folk advocating the establishment of a postal savings bank in the United States. The petition is directed to congress and reads: "We, the undersigned, engaged in the theatrical business, desire to express our interest in the passage of a bill establishing a postal savings bank as an adjunct to the United States postal service. Such a department would be of the greatest service not only to several hundred thousand people connected in some capacity with the acting business, but to every one compelled by business to travel con-

SCORING FOR HEROES OF '76

Fame of American Forefathers
Attacked in New Book.

PATRIOTS CALLED DEGENERATE

John Hancock a Smuggler and Defaulter, Samuel Adams Another "Ne'er-do-well," Declares James H. Stark of Boston.

James Henry Stark of Boston has written a book called "The Loyalists of Massachusetts and the Other Side of the American Revolution," which refers to Samuel Adams and John Hancock as defaulters and thieves and classes other Revolutionary heroes as "ne'er-do-wells," "degenerates" and "looters and betrayers of public trusts."

The book contains 500 pages and the statement that in Virginia the Revolutionary movement of poor white trash, or "crackers," led by Patrick Henry, was against the planter aristocracy. It was only very slowly and very deliberately, Mr. Stark says, that Washington identified himself with the "disunionist" cause.

"Patrick Henry Unreliable."

As for Patrick Henry, Mr. Clark declares that he was one of the most unreliable of men. Byron called him a forest born Demosthenes, and Jefferson, wondering over his career, exclaimed: "Where he got that torrent of language is inconceivable. I have frequently closed my eyes while he spoke and when he was done asked myself what he had said without being able to recollect a word of it. Mr. Stark also recalls the circumstance that Henry failed as a storekeeper and farmer before he said, "Give me liberty or give me death!"

Samuel Adams, Mr. Stark says, was another "ne'er-do-well." He quotes a letter of Adams to prove that he was a defaulter and as tax collector of Boston did not make proper returns of taxes, his bondsmen paying $5,000.

In telling of the Boston massacre the book asserts that the patriots poured a "torrent of coarse and profane abuse upon the soldiers, astonishing even in its echoes across the century," while it compares the Boston tea party with "the so called respectable mob which on the 11th day of August, 1834, destroyed the Charlestown convent and a year later nearly killed Garrison and made the jail his only safe place of refuge. Had slavery triumphed that mob would at this day be the object and subject of popular glorification."

"John Hancock a Smuggler."

Mr. Stark says John Hancock was the owner of the sloop Liberty, which was seized for smuggling, and even asserts that one-fourth of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were bred to trade or to the command of ships. More than one of them, he adds, was branded with the epithet of "smuggler."

As treasurer of Harvard college, he declares, Hancock received college funds amounting to upward of $15,200. Hancock, too, says Mr. Stark, proved to be a defaulter. He tells how "for twenty years the corporation begged and entreated him to make restitution and even threatened to prosecute him, and it was only after his death, in 1793, that his heirs made restitution to the college."

Josiah Quincy is quoted as saying it "would have been grateful to pass over in silence the extraordinary course he pursued in his official relation to Harvard college had truth and the fidelity of history permitted."

Calls Franklin Mail Thief.

Mr. Stark also submits evidence that Benjamin Franklin when sixty-seven years old was dismissed from the office of deputy postmaster general of the colonies because he stole letters from the mail. He relates in detail how Franklin was tried in England and dismissed from the service. The reference is, of course, to the historic incident of the so called "Hutchinson letters."

Mr. Stark was born in London, but came to the United States when nine years old. He is the author of several books, resides in Dorchester, Mass.; is president of the British Charitable association, vice president of the Victorian club and a member of the New England Historical Genealogical society.

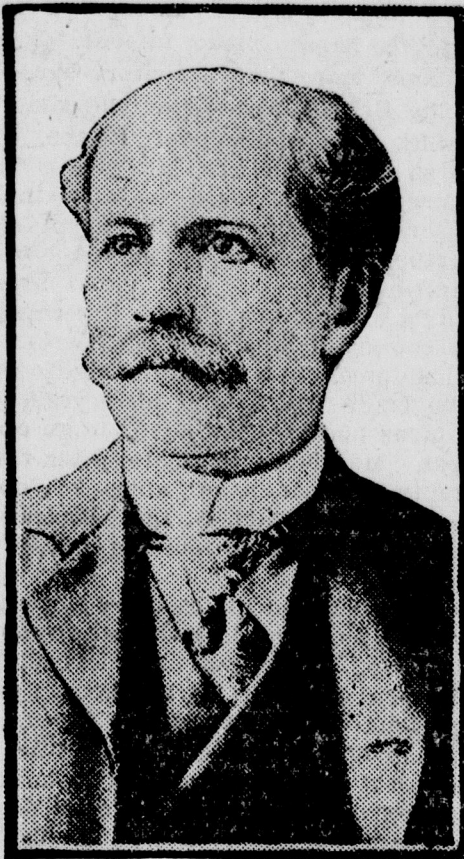

John L. Sullivan to Be a Farmer. When John L. Sullivan, the famous pugilist, returns from his honeymoon he will play the part of a farmer. The livery estate at West Abington, Mass., it was recently announced, was purchased by Mrs. Sullivan, then Miss Harkins, a few weeks ago and a caretaker placed in charge with instructions to put it in thorough repair for occupancy in a few months. The estate is one of the finest in the town. It has a large farmhouse and stable and forty acres of land.

A NEW CANAL ON MARS.

Positive Proof That Planet Is Inhabited, Claims Professor Lowell.

A new canal on Mars a thousand miles long has been discovered by Professor Percival Lowell of the Flagstaff observatory, Arizona. This is evidence, according to the astronomer, that the planet is inhabited. The announcement of the discovery was made the other day to Professor S. W. Burnham of the Yerkes observatory. Professor Lowell spent a few hours in Chicago recently on his way west.

Not only did he see the new canal, but he photographed it. Previous photographs of this region made as late as last May failed to show any trace of the canal. The fact that it developed between May and September, when it was first observed, Professor Lowell regarded as positive proof that it was artificial and therefore that living beings exist on Mars.

The new canal extends southeast from the region of vegetation, known as Syrtis Major, through the great plain of Libya.

TO BRIGHTEN FARM HOMES.

Work of Miss Ilena Bailey, a University of Missouri Student.

Miss Ilena M. Bailey, a student in the home economics department of the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., has invaded a new field. She is a lecturer to farmers and particularly to farmers' wives.

Under the direction of the state board of agriculture she goes over the state to farmers' institutes. Her object is to get the women and girls of Missouri interested in better home work and the lessening of the drudgery found in so many country homes. The board sends her out to talk a new side of farm life at the institutes in the winter months.

"I believe the girls should have the same chance as the boys," Miss Bailey says. "The farm boys are given the opportunity to take part in corn growing and stock judging contests, and the girls likewise should have something to stimulate their interest in the great work of the home. At Sarcoxie we have started the first of our contests for girls; it is a buttonhole contest."

In her talks Miss Bailey discusses foods, clothing, homes and home furnishings. She attempts to organize homemakers' clubs at all these institute meetings.

Miss Bailey has several dates for farmers' institutes to fill yet this spring.

Mayor Gaynor to an Office Seeker.

They are telling this story of Mayor Gaynor of New York now:

An office seeker, meeting the mayor on the street, thought it would be a good opportunity to brace him for a job.

"Good morning, your honor," began the man. "I would consider it a great favor if you would—"

The man got no further, for the mayor looked him over and said: "Good morning, sir. I know your face, but I can't place you."

Skating Rink on a Hotel Roof.

A section of the roof of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York city has been turned into a roller skating rink, and there upon sunshiny days scores of guests enjoy the pastime. A number of children whose parents are staying at the hotel have organized afternoon skating parties.

FARMER'S HINTS ON LIVING.

Drop Style, Pay Your Debts, Buy For Cash and Look Ahead.

Be a farmer and snap your fingers at the monopolists, says O. C. Sigsworth, a Venango county (Pa.) agriculturist. "But if you must live in the city," he says, "then buy your apples when they are at rock bottom prices and make apple butter. Lay in fifty quarts of tomatoes when they are 50 cents a peck and preserve them."

"I take issue with those who say things cost more than they used to," he continued. "In 1872 I paid $1 for four pounds of green coffee, 12½ cents a pound for sugar, 15 cents a pound for prunes and 25 cents a pound for rice. I paid $3 for a hat I could buy now for $1. $3 for gloves that I could duplicate now for $1.50, 45 cents a yard for checking for shirts, $10 for wedding boots and $8 for an ordinary pair of shoes."

"The wage earner is hampered by credit. He goes into debt for two weeks, and his money has to be paid out the day he gets it. It would be better for him to go hungry for two weeks than never to have any money ahead."

"My advice to those who don't like life on a farm is, Drop style, pay your debts, buy for cash and look ahead."

BY SUBMARINE TO THE POLE.

German Explorer Announces New Project in Arctic Exploration.

Dr. von Payer, the celebrated German explorer, announces that a hitherto unknown scientist residing in Kiel named Dr. Anschütz has worked out a serious plan for reaching the north pole by means of a submarine boat.

Dr. Anschütz has been laboring at his scheme for ten years and has devised a boat capable of traveling a hundred feet below the ice. For the purpose of determining his whereabouts the inventor has devised an apparatus which reveals the direction of the mathematical pole. This apparatus has been patented in all countries and is at present installed on German warships.

Dr. von Payer vouches for Dr. Anschütz's seriousness and says that he has remained in the background because he wants first to perfect his plans in every respect.

Flabby and Stumpy, Yet He Is as Quick as a Flash.

NOTED FOR HIS KEEN SCENT.

The Stupid Looking Brute Has a Nose That Makes Up For His Almost Useless Little Eyes—He Can Wheel at Full Speed Like a Polo Pony.

At first sight the African rhinoceros appears to be heavily handicapped by nature as regards his anatomy. His flabby, loutish body, short, stumpy legs, small, unblinking, piglike eyes and prehensile upper lip all combine to give him an air of stupid inactivity. Yet let him once scent danger, and how quickly is this idea dissipated. If lying down at the time, he is on his legs and facing the cause of disturbance in a flash. If satisfied that the danger is real, he turns in a second and is galloping up wind at a pace that compares favorably with that of a good horse.

To avoid obstructions he can turn and wheel at full speed like a polo pony and is capable of keeping up the pace for miles. In a straight race between a rhinoceros and a horse over two miles of the average country in which the former is met with, consisting, as it usually does, of black cotton soil and ordinary veld, the rhino would be fully able to hold his own.

Being very sure footed, obstacles, cracks in the ground and small holes which would cause a horse to stumble, if not come to grief altogether, have no effect on him whatever, and he will gallop down one side of a khor and up the other, leaving loose stones and debris rattling, but without one false step.

His great physical defect is his sight, his eyes being of very little use to him, and the hunter may walk straight up to him in open country till within 100 yards and, without exercising very much care, can by stalking, should the ground be fairly favorable, easily get within twenty yards before firing, always provided the approach is made from the leeward side. Any advantage he may lose owing to his bad eyesight is fully made up to him by his sense of smell.

The phrase "a nose like a fox terrier" is often applied to keenness of scent. This should rather be "a nose like a rhinoceros." There is very little chance of getting on terms with him if the approach is made from windward.

If lying down, he almost invariably does so with his nose pointed down wind, consequently the hunter approaching, as he naturally should, from the leeward side, has only the quarry's defective sight and hearing to contend with.

In the daytime the rhino bird, or oxpecker (Buphaga africana), acts as a protection to him, sleeping and waking. There is a superstition among the natives that these small birds perform the duties of sentry. To a certain extent this is true. They are always flitting about and hanging on to him, feeding on the ticks with which he swarms, and on the approach of danger flutter about with little hoarse cries, which have the effect of rousing him and, if continued, cause him to rise up and look around.

It is almost impossible to calculate correctly what the action of a rhino will be on becoming aware of danger. No two of them seem to behave in the same way in similar circumstances. On the whole, it is safe to say that if only disturbed he will retreat, but should he be actually annoyed and see his enemy he will retaliate and charge.

Serious loss and delay are often caused by a rhino charging a caravan. Yet this action is nearly always forced upon him and occurs through stupidity rather than premeditated malice. The head of a caravan, say, of 300 porters, extending over two or three miles of country, passes to windward of a rhino. He gets the scent and moves up wind and perhaps nears the center of the caravan, when, being thoroughly alarmed, he turns off a little, only to strike the tail end.

Being now puzzled and seeing at last, as he thinks, the original cause of his annoyance, he charges straight through, on his way horning a load or two hastily cast aside by the porters on his approach. He then passes on to leeward of the caravan and, being at last delivered from the annoying scent, moves on into more peaceful territory. Yet a person who had not watched his progress from the start would think that he had come from a mile or more away with the deliberate intention of exterminating the caravan.

On the whole, it may be said that the disposition of the rhino is on a par with that of most animals and many human beings—they wish to be left alone, and unless worried they will not make trouble.—London Field.

COLONEL GEORGE W. DUNN.

The New Factor in the Conger-Allis Controversy.

Colonel George W. Dunn, whom Senator Penn Conger has charged with receiving a campaign contribution from the bridge corruption fund of 1902, is known in Albany as one of the lieutenants and firm political friends of ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt. For many years he has been a political power in Broome county and the southern tier. At present he is a member of the Republican state committee from the Thirtieth congressional district.

Benjamin B. Odell was governor in 1902, the year Senator Conger says the bridge interests made a contribution to the chairman of the Republican state committee. Colonel Dunn was the chairman, having succeeded Mr. Odell in that office when the latter entered the executive chamber. He had been appointed a member of the state railroad commission in 1897 by Governor Black, and he held that office until January, 1907, after Governor Hughes took office and just before the railroad commission was superseded by the public service commission. In the later years of his term at Albany Colonel Dunn was chairman of the railroad commission.

He was chairman of the Republican state committee in 1904, when Governor Odell entered upon his fight for control of the state organization. Colonel Dunn has remained a member of the state committee ever since, although in 1904 he came within one vote in the congressional delegation of being ousted.

He has a brilliant war record. He was captured early in the civil war, and it was a long time before he was liberated. He went to the front again as a lieutenant and after serving through the war received the rank of colonel.

He has always been a resident of Binghamton or its vicinity. He was a stockholder in several corporations and has been a director in banking institutions.

EXCITING RIFLE PRACTICE.

Record Scores Made Amid Mud and Snakes in the Philippines.

How would you like to be out in the open trying to make bullseyes with a rifle while a typhoon was hurling dust and debris into your eyes and while dangerous snakes were making you their target at the same time? This is what the men of the United States navy did at Olongapo, in the Philippines, and they made record scores too.

Full details of the small arm firing held under these difficulties have reached the navy department. Ensign J. R. Morrison, U. S. N., reporting on the firing at the Olongapo range, says that during the practice there were three typhoons, during which the firing was kept up and instruction as to range and deflection corrections under extreme weather conditions given.

"A more difficult range than the one at Olongapo for skirmish runs cannot be imagined," says Ensign Morrison. "Often the runs had to be made through water ankle deep, and those firing were lying down in the characteristic soft red mud a couple of inches thick. When the ground became dry it was infested with snakes, and I have seen the timekeeper of skirmish runs killing snakes that were around those who were firing."

The excellent spirit and determination of the men and the hearty co-operation of the petty officers are warmly commended.

Live Fish Tank Car.

A forty-eight foot express car equipped with tanks for carrying live fish from Alton, Ill., to Philadelphia arrived in Alton the other day and will be loaded with 8,000 pounds of German carp and dogfish for sale in Philadelphia. The car is the first of its kind ever built. The water in the tank will be aerated from the air line of the train and will be filtered. It will be kept in motion constantly by air pressure and will be cooled with ice. It is said that fish thus shipped will be worth 18 cents a pound, while fish shipped dead are worth about 6 cents less.

First Church For the Yaquis.

The first place of worship ever erected for the Yaqui Indians was recently dedicated in the village of Pitahaya, near Guayamas, in Mexico. The Right Rev. Ignatio Villespino, bishop of Sonora, officiated, and Governor Torres, a number of army officers and all the Yaqui chiefs were present. When the peace agreement with the Yaquis was made a year ago it was provided that a place of worship for the exclusive use of the Indians should be provided. The dedication of the church took place on the first anniversary of the signing of the peace pact.

NATIONAL HOME FOR THE THEATER

Scheme to Better the Drama and Help Actors.

VAST STRUCTURE TO BE BUILT

Actors' Fund of America to Put Up Building in New York For Housing Varied Co-operative Charitable and Business Stage Enterprises.

Daniel Frohman, president of the Actors' Fund of America, announced the other day a project involving philanthropy, business and an investment of at least $500,000 which may go far toward revolutionizing the dramatic profession in the United States. Managers, players and to a considerable extent the public will all be affected to a great degree by the consummation of the plan.

The plan involves the erection of a half million dollar structure near Central Park South, in New York city, which will not only house what may be described as the "United Charities" of the three allied professions—the drama, music and the fine arts—but also a noncommercial theater for the testing of new plays, a general booking agency, meeting rooms for actors and managers and the business offices of an old age pension fund. Of the various branches of the great work planned this last part of the general plan and the national booking agency will touch most directly upon the actors, for at present they have to give anywhere from 10 per cent to 50 per cent of their salaries to the private agencies.

To Cost Half a Million.

In discussing the vast project Mr. Frohman said that, while two years ago the plan was hailed as wildly visionary by leading members of the profession, they have now all come to see its practicability, even necessity.

"We hope to begin operations by next fall," he continued. "We expect to clear at least $200,000 at the coming Actors' fund fair to be held in the Seventy-first Regiment armory, New York, during the week of May 9. A good share of this must go to the fund itself, which is sadly in need of replenition, but the rest should be used for this vast philanthropic scheme from which investment an income can be procured."

"It will take a very large structure to house so many interests, and it will not cost less than $500,000. We do not believe that there will be any difficulty in raising this sum through the fair, benefits and donations, as several of our wealthiest philanthropists have already promised their support."

Scope of Vast Enterprise.

"One whole floor will be given to the 'United Charities' of the three professions. Youth is the chief asset of most of the vaudeville players, singers, chorus girls and especially the hundreds of art models. As a rule, when these people are deprived of their means of livelihood the outside charitable organizations give them a chilly reception. The Actors' Fund of America cannot cope with all our own poverty, and the other organizations are even harder pushed. With all these charities under one roof much more can be accomplished."

"Supplementing this is an old age pension fund, whereby the members of the profession themselves can provide against want in old age."

"A great national theatrical exchange, which will do away with individual booking offices and the big fees they exact for engagements of only a week or a month, will occupy one more floor. It will be a good thing for the manager and also for the actor, who will no longer have to tramp from office to office. It will also protect the actor from unscrupulous managers and dubious, questionable places of amusement. This is particularly necessary for the art models. The Art Workers' club is doing much noble work to protect these beautiful young women, and our national organization would extend that work even further."

To Aid Young Playwrights.

"Another floor will be devoted to the development of the native drama. Failures in the last two years have been very frequent. To minimize the risk of failure we will have a small theater to seat about 300 persons where new plays may be tried out without going to the expense of collecting a company, preparing costly scenery and going out on the road for a trial. There will be plenty of stage people in the building who will be glad to give some spare time to this tryout. It will also make it easy for young authors to get a trial for their plays and a thorough hearing from the managers."

"There would also be lecture rooms on this floor, where critics and professors of dramatic literature would be invited to deliver addresses on topics of interest to the profession and the public."

The club features of the plan comprise a big meeting room for the profession, a restaurant with reasonable prices and a library.

A SOUTH SEA ROMANCE.

The Mutiny Long Ago on the Bounty, a British Man-of-war.

Who has not heard of the mutiny of the Bounty? The romance of it still lingers from one end of the Pacific to the other. The descendants of the mutineers of the British man-of-war and their dusky wives are living and bear English names made famous, or infamous, more than a century ago.

The British man-of-war had gone to Tahiti. The commander, Blythe, was harsh and cruel to his men. The women of Tahiti loved the fair skinned sailors and sought to hide them from Blythe, their oppressor, but they were captured, and the ship sailed away, but only to return. When it returned, in command was Fletcher Christian, midshipman, and a score of mutineers. The brute Blythe and his loyal companions had been set adrift in an open boat. Marvelous to relate, after traversing thousands of miles of open ocean they reached the Australian coast. Here they found a haven of refuge at a British outpost. For twenty years all trace of Fletcher Christian and his companions was lost, although searching expedition after expedition was sent to Tahiti by the British government.

Each of the mutineers save the remorseful Fletcher Christian took unto himself a wife. As it meant death to their husbands to live in Tahiti, they helped the men they loved to man the boat that bore them away to seek some desert island. After sailing for many days in the extreme southern tropical sea the rock of Pitcairn arose before them.

Twenty years later a British merchantman sighted by chance the lone rock in the southern Pacific and sent a boat ashore. To the astonishment of the crew, dusky men and women ran down to the beach to welcome them in their own tongue and claimed to be "English." Only one old man among them, Adams, of pure British blood still survived. He was found, Bible in hand, teaching in the little Sunday school which he had built and where he had educated the children of the colony and taught them the tenets of the Christian faith.

When the news reached England a British man-of-war was sent for the last of the mutineers of the Bounty. Aboard was a king's pardon for Adams, so that, after all, he died a British subject, surrounded by his dusky children and grandchildren. The colony was then removed from the faraway southern isle to Tahiti, but homesickness overcame its members, and they returned to the verdant rock.—New Idea Magazine.

World's Fair Here---Why

By reference to map shown here, the proposed site will be noticed as that portion lying just south of the blocked-off portion of the City of South San Francisco, extending southward to the intersection of the two lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad—the old line and the new Bay Shore Cut-off, the former a single-track, the latter already double-track, and rapidly being made four-track, and only seventeen minutes from San Francisco.

The proposed site has also the double-track electric line of the United Railroads, bringing passengers by street car in an hour from any part of San Francisco to the site.

Tanforan Park, with its splendid field for all variety of sports, adjoins; San Francisco Bay, the second largest harbor in the world, is immediately adjacent on the east.

The transportation facilities have never been equalled by a World's Fair held in the United States—two railroad lines, and an electric line already on the spot, and terry service available.

The benefits to be derived will be many. San Francisco will become the Greater San Francisco to which it aspires by growth in the natural direction in which it should grow—southward.

PECK & GARRETT.

STATE POLITICS IS WARMING UP SOME

The Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers are preparing for a whirlwind campaign which they purpose to start early and prosecute up to the opening of the primary polls next August, says the San Francisco Call, in speaking of candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor of California.

Hiram W. Johnson is a brilliant and magnetic orator, and the directors of the league's campaign hope to perfect arrangements which will enable Johnson to speak in every county in the State.

Alden Anderson has given it out cold that he will not seek a combination with a candidate for any other office. He has told his friends that he would run for the nomination for Governor and that other candidates must attend to their own affairs, as he expected to be busy, or words to that general effect.

Johnson complicates the situation. The expected big runout cannot be located. Defections from the league of Belshaw's friends has been to Curry rather than to the organization.

On being asked to explain his confidence of winning in a race in which he was opposed by two clean, capable men, one supported by the machine and the other by the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, Secretary of State Curry said:

"I expect to win because I have not the support of any organization; because the people have the direct primary law. I have not sought and I will not seek the support of any organization. I have always been for the direct primary law. It has given me the chance I could not secure without it. If I am elected governor, and I expect to be elected, it will be without a string of any kind. I will be free to give the people the kind of administration I believe the people should have. My candidacy is based on my record as a public servant. I have given my promise to no living man. If I am elected governor my appointments will be based on the qualifications of the appointees. They will be my appointments. If I cannot be nominated and elected that way I do not want the office. If the people do not want that kind of a governor they had better look elsewhere.

When Curry was asked if he would make an active personal campaign he replied: "The time will probably come when I will be obliged to give some personal attention to the campaign. I shall do as little of that kind of work as possible. The people elected me to the office of secretary of state. I have not found it necessary so far to neglect the duties of my office to advance my political ambition. Representative republicans throughout the state are making my fight. They are accomplishing most gratifying results in the matter of organization. My petition is being completed by my friends. I am content. I intend to adhere to the letter and the spirit of the direct primary law."

A SENSIBLE PLEDGE

Starting at Des Moines the following "Town Boosters' Pledge" has been going the rounds of the cities of the Middle West, and everywhere is receiving signatures:

"On my word of honor I hereby now declare that so long as I am a resident of this community, it will be my constant aim to boost at all times and on every possible occasion.

"I will do whatever I can for the public work that has the good of the community as its object.

"I will submit to and abide by majority rule and will not knock and howl if things are not done my way.

"I will take no radical or extreme position on any question before the people, and will have due respect for the opinions of fellow townsmen when their opinions are opposed to mine.

"I will always try to say something good about our town and our people, or I'll keep my mouth shut and 'cut it out' like a man.

"I realize if this community is good enough to live in and make money in, it is the proper place to spend my money in."

WILL CELEBRATE OPENING OF DUMBARTON CUT-OFF

A dispatch from Redwood City says: The opening of the Dumbarton cut-off of the Southern Pacific, an event of the not far distant future, which this community expects to become a strong factor in advancing the growth of the city, will be recognized in a fitting manner if the plans of the City Council are carried out. At the last meeting of the Trustees, Mayor George A. Merrill was authorized to appoint a committee of five which will confer with the members of the Board of Trade and Women's Club in an effort to arrange the proper details.
